

Why LoveYouMuchly.com?

A STORY OF LOVE IN ACTION

Ben Morris

Founder • Pastor • Relationship Intelligence Facilitator

A few days before Christmas in 2014, my marriage suddenly ended. In that moment, I felt there wasn't a single person I could turn to—but God.

We pursued counseling and healing, together and separately, trying to work things out. Through our shortcomings, brokenness and uncertain future, Love was still in action. I held onto LoveYouMuchly.com as a reminder of what we had—and of the Love that continued to sustain me.

I faced a choice: allow this heartbreak to destroy me, or allow God, who is Love, to build me up. I chose Love.

Over time, that choice became a platform for healing through Love in Action, with a particular heart for men. Many of us were never taught how to understand our emotions, navigate relationships or practice Agape—the unconditional, self-giving Love that seeks another person's good.

Relationship Intelligence gives that purpose practical expression: understanding what is happening within us, recognizing how it affects others, and choosing responses that reflect truth, responsibility and Love. Through LoveMaxxer™, we practice turning that understanding into action.

A mission. A movement. A legacy of Love.

MY PERSONAL MISSION

“I was born to serve in humble yet passionate leadership at the direction of the Holy Spirit—following Him—to encourage and empower every man, woman, boy, and girl to live out, as well as leave, a legacy of Love. In. Action.”

This mission guides the direction of LoveYouMuchly.com and the LoveMaxxer™ movement: helping people receive Love, grow in Relationship Intelligence and put that Love into practice wherever they live, work and lead.

Today, LoveYouMuchly.com carries a purpose far beyond the marriage that inspired its name. It bears witness to Love’s power to heal, restore dignity and build connection—even when circumstances remain painful, and especially for those who feel unreachable or unloved.

The Love that rebuilt me is the Love I’m called to put into action for others.