The experience

What is an Intensive?

A focused, 90-minute coaching experience led by Ben Morris to help you understand one pressing relationship or leadership challenge, practice a more intentional response, and leave with a concrete action plan.

Who is it for?

Men navigating a difficult conversation, recurring conflict, leadership pressure, an important decision, or a need for greater spiritual and relational alignment. You can book individually or as a private group of up to four men.

What is the difference between the two offerings?

The Relationship Intelligence Intensive focuses on communication, emotional patterns, conflict, trust, and relational responsibility. The Servant Leadership Intensive focuses on spiritual alignment, leadership presence, decision-making, delegation, boundaries, and serving others effectively. Both connect what is happening within you to how you respond to the people around you.

What is Relationship Intelligence?

Understanding what is happening within you, recognizing how it affects others, and choosing responses grounded in truth, responsibility, and love.

What kinds of situations can we address?

Examples include preparing for a difficult conversation, responding to criticism, addressing a communication breakdown, setting a healthy boundary, navigating competing responsibilities, or making a leadership decision with greater clarity.

Booking & investment

What is the investment?

$400 total per booking for one individual or one private group of up to four men. For a four-man group sharing the cost equally, that is $100 per person.

When are Intensives available?

Fridays or Sundays, by appointment. Your session date and time are confirmed when booking.

How do I pay?

The Intensive is a fixed-price, per-session appointment. Pay the entire $400 online when booking. No membership or payment plan is required. Contact Ben before booking if using Gift Card credit.

Who books and pays for a private group?

One organizer books and pays the full $400 for the group, then provides the names of up to four participating men. The fee is for the entire booking, not per participant. Four men splitting the cost equally pay $100 each.

Are sessions virtual or in person?

Intensives are available virtually or in a hybrid format, with some participants together in person and others joining remotely. Hybrid arrangements, location, and technology are agreed upon before booking.

Is a long-term commitment required?

No. This is a standalone session. You do not need to enroll in a longer coaching program or commit to future appointments.

What happens before the session?

You complete a short intake describing the situation, what you have already tried, where you feel stuck, and what you want to accomplish. Ben uses your responses to prepare a focused session.

Inside your session

What happens during an individual Intensive?

You clarify the challenge, examine the emotions and beliefs influencing your response, consider the impact on others, and practice a conversation or leadership action. The session closes with a practical seven-day action plan.

What happens during a group Intensive?

Your group identifies one shared challenge, explores each participant's perspective, learns a relevant tool, and practices applying it. Each man leaves with a specific commitment, alongside any shared agreements.

Can each group member bring a different issue?

The group selects one shared focus before the session. Each man can contribute his perspective and apply the learning to his circumstances, while the session stays centered on a common challenge.

Why is role-play included?

Understanding a better response is only the beginning. Role-play lets you practice the words, tone, listening, and choices you want to use—with coaching and an opportunity to try again.

What is included in the $400 fee?

A short intake, personalized preparation, one 90-minute facilitated session, a relevant worksheet or conversation framework, and a concise written recap with a seven-day action plan.

Do I need to purchase add-ons?

No. Intake, personalized preparation, your 90-minute session, a relevant worksheet or conversation framework, and the written recap with a seven-day action plan are included in the $400 fee.

Is faith part of the experience?

The Servant Leadership Intensive is explicitly grounded in Christian faith and biblical principles. The Relationship Intelligence Intensive applies Ben's approach to truth, responsibility, and love, with the role of Scripture and prayer discussed during intake.

Sponsorship & next steps

Can someone sponsor my session?

Yes. LOVE.IN.ACTION.™ Gift Cards purchased through LoveYouMuchly.com can sponsor all or part of an individual or group booking. A $400 Gift Card funds one complete Intensive. Contact Ben before booking to confirm redemption, apply gift credit, and arrange payment of any remaining balance.

Can I sponsor an entire group?

Yes. A $400 Gift Card can fund a private Intensive for up to four men. Participation is voluntary. The participants complete intake and confirm scheduling, subject to availability.

Will a sponsor receive details about the session?

Sponsorship does not include access to private conversations, personal disclosures, or individual coaching details.

How is privacy handled in a group?

Participants agree to respect one another's privacy and keep personal disclosures within the group. Each man chooses how much personal information to share.

Is this therapy or mediation?

This is coaching and leadership development. It does not provide clinical mental health treatment or formal mediation. The focus is understanding your responsibility, practicing your response, and choosing actionable next steps.

What can I expect to leave with?

Greater clarity about one challenge, a practiced response, and a concrete action plan. An Intensive can help you prepare and act more intentionally; another person's response remains outside your control.

How is this different from the 90-Day Men's Small Group?

The Intensive addresses one focused challenge in a single session. The small group develops habits, leadership skills, and accountability through 12 weekly sessions over 90 days.

How do I book?

Book the Intensive through LoveYouMuchly.com for an available Friday or Sunday. Select your focus and confirm whether the booking is individual or a private group. For hybrid arrangements or Gift Card sponsorship, contact Ben before booking.
