

PRESS RELEASE

LoveYouMuchly.com Expands Into Relationship Intelligence, Emotional Intelligence, and Servant Leadership Development

Founder Ben Morris Introduces LoveMaxxer™ and The Servant Leader Accelerator™ to Help Individuals, Teams, and Organizations Build Healthier Relationships and Stronger Leadership Cultures

LOS ANGELES, CA — May 24, 2026 — , founded by Ben Morris under The Way Capital LLC, is expanding into relationship intelligence, emotional intelligence, servant leadership development, and transformational coaching experiences through two emerging initiatives: LoveMaxxer™ and The Servant Leader Accelerator™.

Originally launched as a relationship-centered creative brand, LoveYouMuchly.com is expanding into a broader platform focused on helping individuals, leaders, teams, ministries, and organizations strengthen communication, deepen self-awareness, improve relational health, and develop emotionally intelligent leadership practices rooted in practical wisdom and spiritual maturity.

The expansion includes:

- Interactive LoveMaxxer™ relationship intelligence workshops
- The Servant Leader Accelerator™ leadership development experiences for professional men
- Faith-informed coaching and leadership formation
- Bible reading plan series for creatives and leaders
- Future retreats and transformational experiences focused on healing, growth, and relational wellness

LoveYouMuchly.com Expands

According to founder Ben Morris, the mission behind the expansion emerged from years of personal growth, ministry leadership, creative storytelling, coaching development, and real-world relational experience.

“Relationship intelligence matters right now because every area of life rises or falls on the quality of our relationships — with God, with ourselves, and with other people,” said Morris.

“People do not rise or fall based on talent alone. They rise or fall based on how they relate.”

Morris believes relationship intelligence has become an essential leadership competency in today’s increasingly disconnected and emotionally reactive culture.

“In an age of disconnection, emotionally reactive leadership, and relational burnout, people need practical wisdom, emotional awareness, spiritual grounding, and healthier relational frameworks more than ever.”

Through LoveMaxxer™, Morris is developing immersive workshop experiences designed to help participants:

- Communicate more effectively
- Heal relationally
- Become safer leaders
- Grow in emotional intelligence
- Align their lives with deeper truth and purpose

Meanwhile, The Servant Leader Accelerator™ focuses specifically on helping high-performing men grow as emotionally intelligent servant leaders through faith-informed coaching, accountability, reflection, and intentional leadership development.

Morris describes his own journey — from heartbreak to ministry service, leadership, discipleship, and coaching — as foundational to the philosophy behind the work.

“Relationship intelligence is not merely theory,” Morris shared. “It’s formed through suffering, reflection, accountability, healing, service, spiritual maturity, and intentional growth.”

The company plans to begin expanding its beta workshop experiences throughout Southern California before broader national development.

For more information, visit: www.LoveYouMuchly.com/lovemaxxing